Fortuna Energy Inc. is the largest and most successful natural gas exploration and production company in New York. In fact in 2005, fifty of Fortuna's deep wells produced 74% of the natural gas originating in the state. Every productive well we drill helps reduce America's dependence on foreign energy and is an engine for local job and economic growth.

Land

Leasing oil and gas rights is the first phase of exploration. Fortuna has more than 850,000 acres under lease in New York. We are constantly expanding this base as we follow geologic trends into nearby areas.

Fortuna may lease your oil and gas rights to explore for gas, drill wells and develop successful discoveries. In New York, each well is assigned a spacing unit before the drilling permit is issued. The spacing unit defines the property acreage that will share royalties. Royalties are based on the proceeds from a producing well. If a well is successful, and your property is in the spacing unit, you will be paid royalties according to the terms of your lease.

Regulatory Oversight

The New York State Department of Environmental Conservation (DEC) is chartered to oversee the orderly development of the state's natural resources. Specific state legislation, with revisions and updates enacted in 2005, establishes the rules that govern oil and gas development for both operating companies and landowners.
